Photographic Reflections on Global Weirding

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 1, 2020

Highland Community College | Student Conference Center, Building H

SILENT AUCTION 5:30 | DINNER 6:00 | PROGRAM 7:30

WELCOME ALL NATURE LOVERS – PUBLIC WELCOME

PROGRAM

We hear about it in the news nearly every day: record flooding here, catastrophic wildfires there, climate refugees in search of better lives, etc. Human-induced climate change from steep and ongoing rises in greenhouse gas emissions will continue to not only warm our planet, but also add increasingly more chaos into our climate system. More warming and chaos make for continued strange and, at times, devastating events... some argue 'global warming' isn't the right term for our current and future state of affairs, but rather 'global weirding' best describes the situation.

As part of his nature studies photography program at Augustana College, professor Stephen B. Hager, Ph.D., will share photographic reflections on climate change that seeks to ask questions about sustainability and how we might live full and happy lives now and in a future that will most likely continue to get weirder.

Program made possible through money from the Keith Blackmore memorial fund.
